Dear Friends of the St. George Marathon,

Congratulations and thank you for your participation in our 40th Anniversary at the 2016 St. George Marathon. Your support of our event and our community means a great deal to us and we hope that we will have the opportunity to have you join us again next year.

Our overall winners this year were Riley Cook from South Weber, Utah with a time of 2:16:09 and Rosy Lee, a 3 time winner, from Mountain Green, Utah with a time of 2:40:45. Scott Keate from Highland, Utah and Rosy Lee from Mountain Green, Utah topped the Masters field of runners.

Riley, Scott, Rosy and Masters Runner Tere Zacher, along with local runner Jill McDonald led our delegation to the 10,000 participant Ibigawa Marathon/Half Marathon in Ibigawa Gifu, Japan in November. Riley and Scott won 1st and 3rd place in the half, and Tere and Rosy won 2nd and 4th.

We added 113 runners to the 10 Year Club this year, 21 runners to our 20 Year Club, 6 runners to the 30 Year Club, and 1 runner, Debbie Zockoll, into the 40 Year Club! There are now 1,617 runners who have been inducted into this prestigious club. We are forever grateful to you wonderful, committed runners who have made St. George a big part of your lives.

I also want to thank each of you for making this a special year for me, as I relinquish my St. George Marathon responsibilities. It has been a genuine pleasure to have been a part of this special event. I cherish the many associations and friendships that I have made over the past 34 years. I have been inspired by great performances, positive attitudes, and the remarkable determination of so many to accomplish the goal of finishing. There are a number of different ways to be a winner in a marathon, and I have been lucky enough to see and associate with hundreds of thousands of winners.

Thank you again for choosing to run the St. George Marathon.

Please mark your calendars for the 41st Annual race on October 7, 2017. Best wishes for a great running year from our staff and volunteers.

OVERALL MALE RILEY COOK

When Riley Cook of South Weber, Utah took his place at the starting line for the 2016 St. George Marathon, he knew it was going to be a competitive race.

"I figured there might be four or five guys go under 2:20, which is rare," Cook says.

He also knew his training put him in a position to be among that group of men.

"I knew if I didn't win, whoever beat me was going to have to run really fast," he says.

Combining a training regimen that included a higher volume of miles than he's ever done before, with a greater emphasis on nutrition to combat some of the stomach issues he's dealt with in the past, he felt ready. Even still, he says he was never 100 percent confident that victory would be his, even when he pulled ahead at mile 23.

"I was just running out of fear those last three miles... I felt like they were right behind me," Cook says with a laugh.

Crossing the finish line at 2:16:09, Cook earned the distinction of first place, a victory he was particularly excited about because of the long history his family has with the St. George Marathon.

"Everyone in my family has run, or at least started the race," Cook says, adding that his mother has run it 27 times and his father around a dozen.

"It's been a part of our family history and I wanted to maybe one day win it."

OVERALL FEMALE // MASTERS FEMALE ROSY LEE

When it comes to the St. George Marathon, Rosy Lee loves the course, she loves the water stations, she loves the staff, the time of year and she loves volunteers. The only thing she doesn't always love is the toll intensive running takes on her body.

"I'm older now. It gets harder and harder," Lee says.

Listing elements of her training regimen, including pre- and post-workout stretching, ice, supplements and time spent on a bike, when Lee is training for the marathon it is the only thing she thinks about. Well, that, and raising her four children.

"I'm thinking about my kids but running is always on my mind," she says.

Trying to find a balance in her world, Lee says she's "retired" from competitive running several times, but after coming in as the first female in the 2016 St. George Marathon — her third St. George Marathon victory — she says she's serious about being done.

"Third and final win, I'm going to say," Lee says.

Thanks to regular hydration and refueling throughout the race, Lee says she is happy with her time of 2:40:45 and she felt great when she crossed the finish line.

"I felt a little lazy because I've had other marathons where I was flat-lined. This time, I felt like I could move. Maybe I should have run faster."

But she's quick to say she is "satisfied" with the victory and looks forward to experiencing this race she loves from another vantage point in the future.

"My husband wants to run (the marathon) next year," she says. "Maybe we'll switch roles and I'll watch the kids."

MASTERS MALE SCOTT KEATE

Although lacing up his shoes and hitting the course is nothing new to Scott Keate, who has been running — and winning races — since he was a young boy; when he looks back on his experience with the 2016 St. George Marathon, he knows he approached this race differently.

“This year, running was therapy,” Keate says.

Going through a divorce earlier in the year, this 42-year-old from Highland, Utah says running was a major component in getting back on his feet, finding a new sense of balance and a new purpose.

“I need to enjoy the journey and honor my body,” Keate says, adding that his training mantra is “run with courage and wisdom.”

“Courage gives me the incentive to push through the pain but wisdom helps me not do things that are unwise. Pushing to a healthy limit.”

This year, that balance worked perfectly.

Because of his past experience with the St. George Marathon course, he knew anything was possible, but he never anticipated a win that day.

“It’s the only race I’ve had a consistent experience of exceeding my expectations,” says Keate, who crossed the finish line this year at 2:28:15. “I was super excited for first place.”

He says he is also extremely grateful for the support of the running community.

“When the top 10 or 15 guys finish, it’s this huge celebration. We’re all such fans of each other,” Keate says. “Even though we all want to win, there’s a true spirit of wanting everyone to do their best.”

Now, with this win under his belt, Keate is already looking ahead to his future running goals.

“I don’t believe my best times are behind me at (age) 42. I think I have a marathon PR in me,” Keate says. “I’d like to get 2:21 or better.”

HANDCYCLE MALE CHRIS SPROULE

When Chris Sproule's career as a competitive soccer player was shattered by an injury, he wasn't sure he would ever connect with that part of himself again. But after completing in his first marathon as a hand cyclist, something clicked and he knew the competitive athlete was still inside.

"I love to compete. I love being physically fit," Sproule says. "It's helped me regain independence."

Training six days a week and focusing on a combination of the right equipment, fitness, nutrition and rest, Sproule says all the elements have to come together on race day and, for him, in 2016 they did.

"St. George is one of the fastest marathons I've ever done," Sproule says of his 1:03:15 time. "It's almost like you're a race car at that point going down some of these hills."

In addition to the speed Sproule picks up in the red and black hills of the St. George Marathon course, this race offers something else Sproule loves: community support.

"St. George is one of my favorite marathons," Sproule says. "It's the best supported race and friendliest people I've ever been around."

Now, he's setting his sights on the next level with the hopes of qualifying for the 2020 Paralympics in Tokyo.

"It's a very realistic expectation in my opinion," he says.

HANDCYCLE FEMALE MELISSA “LISA” CHANDLER

If Melissa “Lisa” Chandler could tell people one thing about her experience as a hand cyclist in the St. George Marathon, it would be that she highly recommends the experience.

“I’m a big supporter of getting people in chairs out and active,” Chandler says. “You don’t know until you try it. You might end up loving it.”

That’s what happened with this Salt Lake City woman. Balancing recreational hand cycling with wheelchair basketball and competitive wheelchair fencing, Chandler is grateful for the chance these sports give her to stay active and social.

“I’m not trying to be a super athlete, I just want to stay competitive,” she says.

This year, her St. George marathon time of 1:21:00 was not only competitive, it was enough to give her the first place title in female hand cycling.

Chandler says she tries to compete in the St. George Marathon every other year, alternating with the Salt Lake Marathon and working each race around her fencing competitions. She is extremely appreciative of how welcoming the St. George Marathon staff is to hand cyclists and she has every intention of coming back.

“I’m happy with this year’s time... Next year I plan on coming back and trying to beat my original time,” she says.

WHEELCHAIR MALE NATHAN CROWTON

Celebrating his 25th crossing of the finish line at the St. George Marathon — this time in first place for the men's wheelchair category — Nathan Crowton knows a thing or two about tackling this course. He also knows that racing — regardless of the level of competition involved — has been a wonderful way to stay active and social.

Plus, it gives him something to do when he's not playing wheelchair basketball.

"I'm more of an old-fashioned traditional guy," the 46-year-old Ogden, Utah resident says when asked if he's ever considered switching to hand cycling. "[Hand cycles] have multiple gears to make it easier. To me, the regular chair is more muscle strength."

It's a sport he's been "hooked on" since high school.

"I'm trying not to slow up too much with age," he says.

He's also trying to decide how many marathons will be enough and which one will be his last.

"Since I did win, I need to keep going until someone can replace me," he says.

And as long as he's still racing, he can't imagine a better race than the St. George Marathon.

"It's more organized (and) treats the [athletes] well," he says. "It's always a good experience. And the massage at the finish line is always wonderful."

WHEELCHAIR FEMALE EMILY MCQUEEN

As a younger person, Emily McQueen absolutely hated running, so the thought of competing in a 5K, let alone a marathon, never crossed her mind.

Then an accident left her paralyzed and everything changed.

Since 2008 this mother of five has either done a marathon or had a baby every year. And while she jokes that the time invested in growing a baby is a little like training for the marathon, the real trick now is fitting racing into her schedule — a sacrifice she says is well worth it.

“When I don’t race, I struggle,” McQueen says.

In 1999 McQueen broke her back when she fell out of a tree. Since then, her life as a paralyzed person includes a variety of physical obstacles and mental challenges. For her, racing is the inverse of all of that.

“It’s a freeing, exhausting and strength building exercise which is really good for (someone) with a permanent disability,” she says. “And I really like going fast.”

Although she didn’t check her speed during her 2016 St. George Marathon win, she has clocked herself before on the course doing more than 30 miles per hour on some of the hills.

But even her need for speed wasn’t the real reason she signed up for the St. George Marathon. No, it had to do with raising five boys ages 1 to 12.

“I wanted a couple of hours of quiet time,” she says.

Crossing the finish line in first place at just 1:44:03 was simply a fringe benefit.

“It’s a difficult sport to get into but once you’re in it, it’s easy to thrive,” she says. “It’s a completely positive, wonderful competitive sport.”
